Richard M. Nixon takes oath today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The power passes from party to party, from Lyndon B. Johnson to Richard M. Nixon, at noon today in a moment of pageantry as old as the nation.

The Democrats and their Great Society give way to the Republicans and their theme of "Forward Together" for a prospering America still beset by war.

With his left hand on two brown leather Bibles that have been in the family for generations, with Mrs. Nixon holding them, Nixon repeats after Chief Justice Earl Warren the unchanging 35-word oath to "faithfully execute the office of president."

At that instant, the 56-year-old small town boy, whose father grew lemons, sold gas, and ran a general store in turn back in California, becomes the 37th President of the United States.

And then in his Inaugural Address, Nixon will set out in brief, general, carefully furnished terms the policies and guidelines to govern the course of his administration.

Perhaps in recognition of the one massive issue overshadowing all others, the Bibles dating to 1828 and 1873, will be open at the second chapter, fourth verse of Isaiah, it says:

"And he shall judge among the nations, and shall rebuke many people; and they shall beat their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more."

Somewhat it seemed particularly fitting that President Johnson and his wife and daughters went to church Sunday at National City Christian Church, where the Rev. George R. Davis read a prayer that said:

"May we, as a nation, deserve no enemies and be worthy of all our friends, striving without ceasing for a day when mankind shall not know war any more."

The minister told the congregation the prayer was an original one written by President Johnson.

RMN to find new scene

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Richard M. Nixon takes the presidential oath today he will inherit government social machinery that has grown tenfold since he left Washington eight years ago.

The Great Society programs President Johnson is leaving behind, coupled with innovations of President Kennedy, have changed the face of domestic government during the eight Democratic years.

By one White House calculation 390 programs have been added.

When Republicans President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon took command in 1953, they faced another domestic face-lifting that had been accomplished by Democratic presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman.

The Eisenhower administration tinkered with some of the programs and added others of its own—but it did not roll back the clock on government involvement.

Nixon likely couldn't roll back the whole Great Society if he wanted to—and there's no indication that he does.

But he faces numerous decisions about whether programs should be shifted to different agencies or lower levels of government, whether some efforts should be accelerated or curtailed, and whether he should recommend new concepts in some areas of the Great Society.

From planning whole model cities to making grants-in-aid to sculptors, the Kennedy New Frontier and Johnson Great Society have moved into virtually every facet of life.

Outgoing presidential adviser Joseph A. Califano Jr. estimated there were 45 domestic social programs when Eisenhower left office. Now there are 435, he says.

Rep. William V. Roth Jr., R-Del., compiled last year a listing of all operating federal assistance programs. He came up with 1,019 but some of those are outside Great Society scope.

President Johnson's new federal budget shows $31 billion is being spent during the budget year that began last July on selected programs in community development, housing, education, manpower, health, welfare, recreation, business development, transportation and rural improvement—the heartland of the Great Society. And that doesn't include Social Security benefits.

Roughly comparable figures totalled less than $6 billion for the 1961 fiscal year, the last budgeted by Eisenhower. Even in fiscal 1964, Kennedy's last budget year, the total was only $10 billion.

While money programs have constituted the bulk of expanded domestic legislation, they have not been the sole component of the Great Society.

The Civil Rights Act of 1954 outlawed discrimination in employment, for example.

Inaugural timetable

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon timetable for inauguration day, all times eastern standard:

President-elect and Mrs. Nixon attend a prayer breakfast at the State Department, 9:30.

The Nixon family arrives at the White House, 10:30.

The Nixons, Johnsons and various party leaders leave the White House at 11:10 and reach the Capitol at 11:20.

Inauguration ceremonies begin at the Capitol at 11:30 with Nixon's swearing-in about noon.

President Nixon and Vice President Agnew lunch at the Capitol with congressional leaders, 1:00.

The presidential party leaves the Capitol at 2, just in advance of the inaugural parade, and reaches the White House at 2:30.

President Nixon reviews the parade from outside the White House from 2:30 until 4:15 and then returns to the White House.

The Nixons leave the White House at 9:20 and, starting at 9:30, pay brief visits to inaugural balls at the Smithsonian Institution, the Shoreham, Sheraton Park, Washington Hilton, Mayflower and Statler Hilton Hotels.

The Nixons entertain friends at a White House reception, 10:30.

Tokyo students stage revolt

TOKYO (AP) — Police crushed a revolt on Tokyo University's main campus Sunday after 22 hours of fighting with radical striking students who hurled rocks, firebombs and acid.

Spokesmen said arrests in the two-day operation totaled 629.

28 arrested in dope raids

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP)—The 20-year-old son of a Philadelphia judge was among 28 persons arrested in a series of police raids here on charges of selling and possessing drugs.

Laurence Levin, son of Judge Herbert S. Levin of the Philadelphia Common Pleas Court, and 14 others were charged following their arrests Saturday with the sale of drugs. Thirteen of those arrested were charged with possession.

Lancaster Dist. Atty. Clarence Newcomer said the raids climaxed an eight-month investigation by his office and state police.

Jet plunges into Pacific

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Denver-bound jetliner with 38 aboard crashed in the Pacific, apparently in flames, shortly after takeoff Saturday night. A massive search Sunday failed to find any survivors.

Rescuers recovered one male body along with pieces of the fuselage and mail sacks in the shark-infested waters near Malibu, a few miles west of where 15 persons were killed in another jetliner crash Monday night. The United Airlines Boeing 727 plunged into the sea less than five minutes after taking

For the first time in the nation's history, a Presidential inaugural will be confronted by a large-scale protest demonstration. Here, demonstrators have placed a white mask, resembling President-elect Richard Nixon, and signs on a monument behind the Treasury Building Sunday.

Protesters stage counter inaugural

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of jeering antiwar demonstrators shouted angry protests Sunday against President-elect Nixon in a march on the Capitol. And later some of them threw rocks ineffectually at guests arriving for an inaugural reception.

Mounted policemen rode into the disheveled throng to drive it back from a Smithsonian Institution building after stones had been thrown toward a dozen dignitaries arriving for a reception for Vice President-elect Spiro T. Agnew.

The protesters threw some firecrackers also and these panicked some of the police horses causing some fright but no serious injuries among the arriving guests.

The demonstrators, turning their anger and defiance toward the new administration even before its beginning, carried signs calling Nixon a war criminal as they marched down Pennsylvania Avenue shouting for peace.

Police estimated the marchers at just under 5,000. David Dellinger, veteran leader of peace protests, placed the turnout at 10,000 to 12,000. Most of the marchers were in the 15-to-25-year age bracket.

Assistance Chief of Police Jerry V. Wilson said 10 arrests were made during the march. Inspector Charles Adams of the Park Police reported five more arrests in the melee at the Smithsonian's new Museum of History and Technology.

One policeman, cut by a rock, was taken to a hospital. Another, hit on the back of the head with a piece of police barricade, was treated by a doctor at the scene.

Agnew arrived at a side entrance and eluded the demonstrators who had gathered to jeer him.

Eight mounted policemen, with nightsticks upraised, drove the demonstrators back after the rock-throwing started. Apparently the sticks were not used and no injuries were reported by guests or protesters.

The march Sunday was staged as the main act of the protest. But the demonstrators plan a possibly stormy encore today at the Nixon inaugural parade.

Vietnam fighting LBJ's albatross

LONDON (AP) — From abroad, President Johnson was widely viewed Sunday as departing office with a record of formidable domestic achievements overshadowed by his pursuit of the Vietnam war.

A sampling of the foreign press showed that his successor, Richard M. Nixon, is expected to preserve much of Johnson's "Great Society" legislation, while embarking on a major reshuffle of America's commitments around the world.

"The personal tragedy of Lyndon Johnson is that Vietnam submerged his achievements at home," said the Sun of London. "Judged by them alone he would rank as a notable president."

The influential Times of London said: "It is generally agreed that there is now as much law on civil rights, urban poverty, and so on as America can possibly digest. Mr. Nixon's task will be to enforce the Johnson laws, not to write new ones."

The left-wing London Daily Mirror added: "Nixon's bailiffs can clear away the rubble of LBJ's failures. Then their real work will begin."

"No matter what assessments historians may make in years to come, Johnson would rank higher today but for the most tragic blunder of all—Vietnam."

In Poland, the newspaper Warsaw Life said Johnson's administration shows a "totally negative balance sheet." It said: "There has been no single positive step in disarmament, the (nuclear) nonproliferation treaty is still unratified by the Senate, the German problem is stalled, and U.S. aid and support has contributed to Israeli aggression." At home, it said, the "Great Society still remains only on paper."

In West Germany, the Hamburg weekly Die Zeit said: "The prognosis for American world politics during the Nixon era will be: more of the same, but minus the Vietnam issue."

"U.S. policy toward Europe will not change in substance. America will seek to reduce its share of defense of Europe."

Sky pirates hijack planes

MIAMI (AP)—Sky pirates—including one who repealed a presidential order with a death threat—grabbed off two airliners Sunday to make the second successive twin air piracy weekend. Both planes were ordered to Cuba, carrying a total of 265 people.

The president of Colombia, Carlos Lleras Restrepo, tried to derail the seventh hijacking of the year. He denied fuel to an Ecuadorian prop-jet seized by a gun-brandishing passenger. But the pilot radioed the gunman would kill him if the fuel was denied. The Colombian Ministry of Defense then ordered the fuel delivered "in order to avoid a tragic incident." The plane carried 43 passengers and a crew of six.

A few hours earlier, the pilot of an Eastern Airlines jet radioed from over Florida: "There's a man in the cockpit with a gun and a hand grenade." Capt. R. D. Smith of Atlanta, Ga., added: "We're heading for Havana." His DCB carried 168 passengers and a crew of eight.

Both the planes were en route to Miami, the South American plane from Guayaquil, Ecuador, and the Eastern flight nine from New York.

The Eastern jet landed at Havana's Jose Marti Airport where Cuban security officials took the hijacker into custody. One of the Cubans snapped the man's picture as he descended from the craft. The hijacker was described as a slender man in his 20s, wearing a dark suit.

Associated Press Correspondent Fenton Wheeler reported from Havana that the hijacker appeared calm and unhurried as he accompanied the Cuban officials into the airport. The passengers began leaving the plane about 10 minutes later.

The Eastern plane was released and landed in Miami at 6:18 p.m. It carried the crew and five New York State passengers.

Lodge ready to assume peace role

PARIS (AP) — Awaiting arrival of a new chief U.S. negotiator, delegates to the Vietnam peace talks worked hard Sunday in an atmosphere of hope on preparations for the start of down-to-business discussions.

Vietnam diplomat Henry Cabot Lodge, was due in Paris tonight to take up for the new Nixon administration where Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, President Johnson's representative here for eight months, left off.

Sources said the first session could come as early as Tuesday. But in Washington, Lodge said that decision would have to await his arrival in Paris, and other Washington officials doubted the talks would get under way so soon.

Berlin Reds' smashing celebration

In Berlin a fireman carries a mannequin from a department store window after it was broken during rioting by demonstrators here Saturday. Over 40 other windows in the area were damaged. The demonstration was held in honor of the 50th anniversary of the death of Communist leaders Karl Liebknecht and Rosa Luxemburg, who were killed in Berlin in 1919.

Enemy steps up attacks

South Viets go on full alert

SAIGON (AP) — All South Vietnamese troops and local defense forces have been placed on full alert against stepped-up enemy attacks coinciding with the enlarged peace talks in Paris, informed sources said Sunday.

South Vietnamese military headquarters said such attacks Saturday night and Sunday morning left 18 persons dead and 103 wounded.

A government spokesman said the timing of the operations indicated the Communist command wants to re-emphasize its will to fight as well as talk.

Twenty towns and military posts were shelled, a bridge on a major highway in the Mekong Delta was blown up, a hamlet was attacked by ground troops, and grenades and explosive charges were tossed into a theater and a restaurant.

While South Vietnamese forces were reported placed on 100 per cent alert, there was no change in the status of the Americans.

A spokesman for the commander of the 25,000 U.S. troops in the Saigon capital military district said: "We're maintaining the same degree of operational readiness we normally do."

"We show no (enemy) threat to Saigon at this point," the spokesman added. "There are no major units moving toward the city within our area of operation, which is roughly a 20-mile circle around the capital."

The worst terrorist attack occurred in the district town of Phu Cat, 254 miles northeast of Saigon. Viet Cong agents tossed two grenades into a theater, killing four civilians and wounding 52.

In the Mekong Delta city of Truc Giang, 40 miles southwest of Saigon, one civilian was killed and 12 were wounded when a terrorist set off an explosive charge in a restaurant.

Viet Cong troops raided Dong La hamlet, 110 miles northeast of Saigon, killing 10 government soldiers and wounding six before being driven off by the hamlet's 150 militiamen. The militiamen reported they killed 43 enemy soldiers. Two civilians died in the crossfire.

Enemy gunners pumped 300 rockets and mortar shells into two provincial capitals, four district towns and 14 smaller towns, military bases and outposts. South Vietnamese headquarters said most of the shellings caused only light casualties.

They were centered in the Mekong Delta, where some field officers say the Communist command has already begun the first phase of its winter-spring offensive.

Vietnamese spokesmen said Viet Cong saboteurs blew up a 70-foot timber-bedded bridge on Highway 4 about 125 miles southwest of Saigon, with mines mounted on a floating raft.

U.S. headquarters announced an American helicopter was shot down by enemy ground fire near the delta city of Can Tho, 80 miles south of Saigon. All five Americans aboard were killed. It was the 985th U.S. helicopter downed in combat during the war.

About 200 paratroopers from the U.S. 82nd Airborne Division clashed with North Vietnamese soldiers 60 miles north of Saigon Saturday and reported killing 10 in a 90-minute fight. The paratroopers suffered two dead and 12 wounded.

Six miles farther north, troops of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division ran into 400 North Vietnamese soldiers in fortified positions. U.S. fighter-bombers and rocket-firing gunships blasted the bunkers for three hours.

U.S. headquarters said a sweep of the battlefield turned up the bodies of 20 enemy soldiers. The air cavalrymen suffered 19 men wounded, but none killed.

Meanwhile a U.S. source said that, among hundreds of captured documents, one mentioned today as the starting date for a full-scale enemy offensive, apparently to coincide with the inauguration of President-elect Nixon. But he added: "I wouldn't pay much attention to it." He said various dates had been mentioned in the last five weeks.

Pueblo inquiry today

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — A year ago this week, while on an intelligence mission off the coast of North Korea, the USS Pueblo radioed: "More company."

What happened next, and for the 11 months the 82 surviving crewmen were interned in a North Korean prison compound, will be scrutinized starting today by a Navy court of inquiry.

Meeting in a 113-seat classroom at the Naval Amphibious Base here, across the bay from San Diego, will be five admirals headed by Vice Adm. Harold G. Bowen Jr., commander of the Pacific Fleet antisubmarine warfare forces.

Since the crew's release Dec. 22, and through more than three weeks of debriefings at the San Diego Naval Hospital.

Was the Pueblo within North Korean territorial waters when she was taken? How was the ship captured, and why didn't the crew resist, or even scuttle the ship? How much secret equipment and information was destroyed? And what of the crewmen's confessions, later repudiated, to their captors?

These questions will be central to the inquiry.

The Navy already has supported the crew publicly. Adm. Thomas I. Moorer, chief of naval operations, has said the Navy never believed the Pueblo entered North Korean waters. And Rear Adm. Edwin M. Rosenberg, in charge of getting the crew back to the United States, has said: "As far as the U.S. Navy and the nation are concerned, these men acted honorably."

The inquiry is not a trial, but the court can recommend action for the Navy to take.

North Viet infiltration up sharply

WASHINGTON (AP) — Intelligence reports show that infiltration of North Vietnamese troops into South Vietnam has increased heavily in the last two months. U.S. officials said Sunday.

The flow of reinforcements indicates that the new Nixon administration may have to cope with a Communist offensive in South Vietnam during its first weeks while it is shaping its war and peace-negotiating policies.

The North Vietnamese purpose in undertaking a new drive, Johnson administration leaders believe, would be to strengthen the position of their negotiators in the Paris peace talks. The expanded stage of the talks, including South Vietnam and the National Liberation Front, began auspiciously Saturday.

Some authorities here say infiltration has more than doubled since late November—up from about 7,000 troops a month to possibly 20,000. Other authorities put the present infiltration level at nearer 10,000.

Whatever its intended purpose, officials said it could have serious impact on two other issues due to claim the early attention of Nixon. Secretary of State-designate William P. Rogers, and incoming Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird.

One of those is whether they should seek or accept an early ceasefire in South Vietnam in the new, expanded Paris talks. The Johnson administration has been against a ceasefire except as the first step of a General troop withdrawal plan.

Another issue which seems certain to be affected by the material change in the military situation is whether and when to begin withdrawing American forces from Vietnam.

Publisher of TV Guide dies at 57

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — James T. Quirk, 57, publisher of TV Guide and longtime executive for Triangle Publications, died Saturday after suffering a heart attack at International Airport.

Quirk joined Triangle Publications in 1940 as promotion director of radio station WFIL.

Following World War II service, he returned as promotion director of the radio station and WFIL-TV. From 1949 to 1953, except for a year's sabbatical to serve in the Korean War, he was promotion director of the Philadelphia Inquirer.

Scores injured as unrest spreads south to Dublin

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Civil rights unrest spread south into the Irish Republic over the weekend, bringing a clash with police in the heart of Dublin. Scores of demonstrators were injured.

As in Northern Ireland, which had its first quiet weekend since October, the republic's troubles are a potentially explosive mixture of political and religious division.

The difference is that the religious argument here is between factions within the Roman Catholic church and not, as in the North, between Catholics and the Protestant majority.

More than 1,000 demonstrators clashed with hundreds of police Saturday night on O'Connell Street, Dublin's main thoroughfare. They were demanding action to cure the city's chronic housing shortage.

The demonstrators staged a sit-down on O'Connell Bridge, blocking the main traffic route across the Liffey river. Police waded in with clubs to clear the road.

Organizers claimed that young girls were manhandled and beaten. The Transport and General Workers Union, Ireland's largest union, said it would call for protest demonstrations against the police action later this week.

The demonstration was sparked by the jailing of a leader of the Dublin Housing Action Committee, a group set up last year to press claims of the city's 10,000 families without adequate homes.

The jailed man, Denis Dennehy, was on hunger strike in Dublin's Mountjoy Jail. He was imprisoned for defying a high court order to leave a house which he found vacant and had moved into with his wife and two young children.

A Jesuit priest, the Rev. Michael Sweetman, was among speakers who addressed the demonstrators. He said: "The imprisoning of Dennehy in accordance with the law presents an extreme example of the sickness of the housing situation. He is in prison primarily and precisely because he was homeless. What he did by squatting was not immoral."

Rep. Ruggiero takes PUC to task on gas leak probe

ROSETO — Rep. Philip S. Ruggiero of Bangor has taken the Public Utility Commission (PUC) to task over a survey of gas leaks in the area conducted by the Bangor Gas Co.

The PUC approved the gas company's survey which was conducted following a major fire in Roseto which started from a gas explosion.

The home of Dominick DeRea of 209 Garibaldi Ave., Roseto, was demolished when a gas explosion set the three-story house ablaze last March 1.

Ruggiero took the PUC to task in that the findings of an investigation be made known.

Regulations needed

The legislator from the 137th State Representative District reminded the PUC that last April "I suggested that there may be a need for a regulation that gas lines be closed at the curb line where service lines have been abandoned. Another safeguard was that a higher odorant content of gas be required to enable one to detect gas leakage more easily."

"I would like to know whether you have reached any conclusion about these matters," Ruggiero added.

Roseto Fire Chief Fred Vario said the gas leak which caused the explosion was found in the gas line running from the street into the house.

Stressing that the public is entitled to know more about the investigation, Ruggiero explained his knowledge of the inquiry's results are limited. The only official statement directed to him, he said, was the copy of a letter sent to John H. Ware III, president of the company.

The PUC, in the letter, advised the company to submit a report by June 2 outlining the progress made on repairing 21 gas leaks which were found in a survey conducted last September 24.

The Commission had found the survey satisfactory.

Missed the point

Ruggiero, however, stated that the PUC may have "missed the whole point" and added that the investigation leaves many unanswered questions.

He said the public should know why a probe of this type is left to the gas company and whether the PUC will adopt precautionary measures.

Ruggiero charged that "if the Commission can't furnish these answers, perhaps a legislative inquiry can."

The survey, conducted by an engineering firm for the Bangor Gas Co., disclosed that two potentially dangerous leaks were found and repaired immediately. It also showed that a number of minute and un-hazardous leaks were found and are in the process of being repaired.

Merger decision pending

HAMLIN — The Salem Township School Board will meet Friday night to officially decide whether it will endorse a reorganization plan for Wayne County School districts.

The five-man board previously has been opposed to a plan which imitates the various districts throughout the county into three units.

The Wayne County School Board met with the Salem directors Friday night to discuss implications if further appeals are made against the reorganization plan.

The Pennsylvania Department of Public Instruction approved the reorganization, Salem Township, during a hearing, protested, as did Buckingham and Scott Townships.

The Salem directors could appeal the reorganization plan to the Wayne County Court of Common Pleas.

Whether this course of action will be followed, however, will be made at Friday's meeting.

Pike murder case

Hearing date not yet set

PORT JERVIS, N. Y. — A hearing date has not yet been arranged for 17-year-old James Michael Olenick to determine whether he would waive extradition to Pennsylvania where he is wanted for murder.

Middletown, N. Y. attorney Michael Gurda, one of the two defense counsels for the Port Jervis teenager, said Sunday that there is "nothing new" in the case.

Gurda verified that no date has been set for a hearing. Olenick, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Olenick of 17

Reservoir Ave., was arrested last Tuesday in Port Jervis, on a fugitive from justice warrant.

The warrant was issued by State Police in Middletown on the basis of a murder warrant issued by the Milford State Police.

Olenick is accused in the slaying of Robert A. Ziepk, 41, of Cambria Heights, N. Y. Ziepk was found slain in his vacation home at Hemlock Farms in Blooming Grove, Pike County.

He is currently being held without bail in the juvenile section of the Orange County Jail in Goshen.

The hearing will have to be held in New York State to determine whether Olenick willingly will go to Pike County to face the murder charge. If not, extradition proceedings will have to be initiated by Pike County District Attorney William Gumble.

Gumble issued a formal statement Friday in regard to the case. He said that he is unable to comment upon the facts of the case other than those that have been previously released.

Gumble advised that all care would be taken to protect the rights of James Michael Olenick who has been accused of the murder of Ziepk. This, said Gumble, would include the avoidance of pre-trial publicity. Gumble also stated that he could do nothing to preclude others from giving their version of the case, and the fact that he has not commented upon these statements of others does not mean that he in any way condones or agrees with these statements.

WASHINGTON — The Pentagon asked Congress Friday to authorize $2.5 billion for military construction of which $26,000 is earmarked for Tobyhanna Army Depot.

The $2.5 billion in construction funds is for abroad and at home for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Tobyhanna Army Depot has numerous construction plans underway of which the $26,000 request is only a minute portion.

SPINAL DISCS, BUILT-IN SHOCK ABSORBERS

By Dr. Thomas F. Snyder

Disks are much discussed anatomical structures, but we hear only about the bad features, such as the pain and discomfort of a slipped disk. Why not be grateful for the comfort which disks give? Disks are cushions placed one between each vertebrae and provide for considerable shock absorbing. When the shock of an accident is great enough to overcome the built-in shock absorbers, the jar is transmitted to the spine and is likely to cause a vertebral subluxation (a vertebrae misaligned sufficiently to cause nerve root pressure). Should the subluxation occur in the lower back, the following conditions could occur: low back pain, sciatica, bladder disturbances, leg cramps or pains and menstrual disturbances. If symptoms such as these persist, a Chiropractic examination and adjustment are recommended.

One of a series of articles published in the public interest to explain and illustrate the scientific practice of Chiropractic, written by Dr. Thomas F. Snyder, Chiropractor, Brodheadville, Pa. (Phone: 992-4787.)

Pen Argyl school acquires 25 acres

PEN ARGYL — The Board of Education of the Pen Argyl Area School District has taken an option to purchase approximately 25 acres of land.

The purpose of the land, located at the northeast corner of the intersection of Teels Road and Longcore Road in Plainfield Township, is to develop a site for a new elementary school.

Present plans are for this school to be completed in late 1970. A preliminary room schedule approved by the Department of Public Instruction indicates that the capacity of the school will be 800 students. These will be housed in 28 classrooms with auxiliary areas to include an art room, a music room, a gymnasium, and a combination auditorium-cafeteria. Office space will be provided not only for the building administration, but also for the superintendent and other district administrative staff members.

Final selection of this site was based on a survey made by the architectural firm of Campbell, Rea, Hayes and Large over the last six months. This survey rated all available, suitable sites in the district on the basis of geographic relationships, size and slope of the property and the physical characteristics of the land.

Using these criteria in an attempt to find the site, the architects made the recommendation of this location as being closest to an ideal situation.

Oil leak blamed

Fish killed in Bushkill Creek

BANGOR — An investigation is underway to determine the origin of oil in the Little Bushkill Creek which has killed trout, suckers, bullfrogs, minnows and other marine life.

David Teel, an 11-year-old 4-Her, whose family lives near Plainfield Church, discovered oil on the creek water and dead fish late last week.

The oil was in the creek southwest of Pen Argyl to the Grand Central Station Bridge near Plainfield Church.

A transcontinental pipeline from Canada to a New Jersey company crosses the creek near the Grand Central Bridge. Residents blamed a leakage from the pipeline and said similar incidents occurred during the past 30 years ago.

Teel's father had contacted Waterways Patrolman John Weaver. Weaver was unable to comment until the conclusion of a thorough investigation.

The oil, which is clear in color, is believed to have run down to Edelmans which is about five miles from Grand Central Bridge.

An investigator from the State Health Department's Reading office has been contacted to aid Weaver.

The creek, it was reported, had just been stocked.

Bangor man files appeal on license

STROUDSBURG — Judge Arlington W. Williams has given a Bangor man a chance to save his operator's license.

Judge Williams has called for a transcript from Port Township Justice of the Peace Nathaniel Gruber and has ordered a hearing for later this month.

The petition requesting this was filed in Monroe County Court by Atty. Edmund Turtzo of Bangor in behalf of Raymond Pagatto of 329 N. Ninth St., Bangor, who was charged with a motor vehicle violation.

Pagatto contends that a constable came to his home and demanded $15 from Pagatto's wife to "clear up the case."

According to the petition, Mrs. Pagatto paid the $15 and that the unidentified constable had acted "irregularly" and that Gruber had been notified of this fact and it was ignored by Gruber.

Pagatto contends that his car is vital to his job security. He works in Lehighton.

Roxanne just plain lucky

NEWFOUNDLAND — Just lucky... that's what some folks are. And there are others who try all of their lifetimes and just never win anything!

Roxanne is one of the fortunate ones. Several years ago, she made the news when she won a shotgun. Roxanne loves hunting, and her prize seemed especially appropriate.

Then this week, Roxanne did it again. This time, she won a foalster as a prize.

The shotgun, she knew what to do with. The foalster's another matter, because Roxanne is a beagle who owns the Bud Bartlesons in LaAnna, Pike County.

The Bartlesons sign Roxanne's name to any "chances" which are acquired.

Pike school directors are elected

MILFORD — Leonard Snyder was re-elected president of the Pike County School Board during a recent reorganization meeting.

Mrs. Patricia Marley was elected vice president; Dr. Alan Zelik, treasurer and Mrs. Cynthia Van Lierde, secretary.

The board also ratified and approved the minutes of a recent meeting with the combined boards of Pike, Monroe and Northampton Counties.

The three boards participate in the administration of the Regional Instructional Materials Center which is located in Bethlehem and serves the tri-county area.

County School Superintendent Leland Chamer also emphasized that the Pike Board, in conjunction with Monroe and Wayne Counties, is conducting a survey of all pre-school children with mental or physical handicaps.

This project is supported by a federal grant with the purpose of providing a training program to prepare the youths for entrance into the public school.

Chamer urged parents to notify his office in the Tom Quick Inn, Milford, for names and addresses of any child with a mental or physical handicap who has not yet entered school.

Gouldsboro girl in Missouri

NEWFOUNDLAND — Mary Lou Nolan, daughter of Mrs. Madelyn Nolan, Gouldsboro R.D., and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Heberling, former owners of The Brookside, a South Sterling resort hotel, has been accepted for enrollment in Automation Training, Inc., St. Louis, Mo., for the term beginning this month.

Miss Nolan attended school at Pocono Mountain Joint High School, Swiftwater, and formerly was a student at Southern Wayne in Newfoundland.

Nixon's dream fulfilled today

Richard M. Nixon today fulfills the dream of every red blooded boy. He becomes president of the United States.

Glitter and ceremony will mark today's inauguration and the various celebrations to follow. Tuesday marks the first day on the new job and four years of trial and tribulation.

Being president of the United States is a thrill second to none, but the problems and difficulties associated with the office grow with the years.

The presidency of the United States is now also a worldly office and the actions of its occupant are viewed and weighed by people around the globe. The United States almost daily sets the tone for activity in the world.

Becoming president undoubtedly is doubly sweet for Nixon, who failed in an earlier attempt and had to fight off a tremendous finishing kick by Hubert H. Humphrey to win in November.

Thousands of residents of the United States will be in attendance for the inaugural ceremonies today and additional millions will watch by way of television.

However, there will be times during the next four years when Nixon will feel absolutely alone, as have so many presidents of the past.

The President-elect begins his career as the highest paid chief executive, $200,000 as opposed to $100,000, in history. But, it might be well to note that he may also face greater problems than any other president in history, although it is difficult to even imagine greater difficulties than those which have unfolded during the past four years.

The time has now arrived for Republicans and Democrats alike to unite behind our new president and do all in their power to restore peace, both externally and internally.

Encouraging statistics

The year 1968 was one of interest as far as this community is concerned. It marked growth possibly like no other in the past.

Monroe County's employment figure rose to 26,500, which was 100 over the previous high. The new peak was formed in August, as was the previous mark.

However, the interesting fact is that the 100 gain was made principally in primary metals and metal products. The gain in employment marks only part of the industrial growth. Other signs of enlargement include the expansion of area manufacturing plants and industrial loans granted for future improvements.

Unemployment equaled last year's low point of 1.1 per cent of the work force. This means that approximately 300 were unemployed, with many being unemployed only because they were caught between jobs in the apparel and construction industries.

Of the unemployed total, 83 filed for Unemployment Insurance Benefits. Total benefits paid last year amounted to $445,000, or an increase of $73,000 over 1967. The peak year for unemployment benefits was in 1958, when $1,173,000 was paid.

Employment in the Stroudsburg Labor Market Area has enjoyed a steady growth over the years, except for a temporary setback in 1960.

Seventeen new industries have made inquiries about locating in Monroe County and six are said to be "very good prospects."

The growth of any region is measured by its employment. A need always exists for resort workers in this area, but the growing demand for industrial labor is an encouraging factor.

Nixon's talent hunt may fill 2,100 jobs

By DONALD R. LARRABEE
Ottawa News Service
Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — A computer-written letter to some 80,000 Americans asking them to help with the Nixon talent-hunt has produced a file of some 25,000 potential appointees and the new president is clearly pleased with the response.

As the Nixon Administration settles down to business, around 1,600 sensitive policy-making jobs at the middle-management level will remain to be filled—hopefully within the next month or 45 days.

But Nixon's "staff search and selection team", headed by 28-year old Harry Flemming, believes it has happily matched some 500 applicants with the right jobs so far and resumes are in the making on hundreds of others.

Over a long haul, there may be as many as 7,000 policy positions available to Nixon appointees but the hard-core immediate group runs to about 2,100.

Seeking recommendations
Early last month, the computers produced a letter which was sent over the signature of Nixon "from the office of the President-elect", asking recipients to recommend "men and women who by their qualities of youthfulness, intelligence and creativity can make significant contributions to our country" by working for the Nixon Administration.

The addressees included 53,420 persons whose names appear in regional editions of "Who's Who"; 24,000 from a listing of "Commerce and Industry"; an educational list of 2,430 names, a compilation of about 12,000 bank presidents and another 12,000 corporation executives.

In the automatic process, President and Mrs. Johnson, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie D-Me. and other bemused Democrats were asked to join in the talent hunt. As far as could be determined, the Johnsons and Muskie haven't bothered the Nixon people with any suggestions. But other Democrats have responded with enthusiasm—and Nixon is willing to put some Democrats on the payroll.

The returned questionnaires and job applications have been arriving back in Washington at the rate of 700 to 1,000 a day since mid-December. The mail is opened and discussed by a dozen or more Nixon aides sitting around a huge banquet table on the seventh floor of the new red-brick Federal building across the street from the White House.

The direct-mail approach seems to have had a good impact. The public is used to receiving computerized solicitations these days and most people apparently are flattered to have a voice in picking people for the public rolls in Washington.

In the culling of the suggestions, some names have been forwarded to Nixon's immediate staff in New York where sub-cabinet level selections have been processed.

Some letters—like the one from a fellow who wants to be an ambassador because he is unemployed—are given short shift. (The first thing you have to know about top diplomatic jobs is that they take a wad of pocket money.)

Team of investigators
When the Nixon transition office decides to take a serious look at a man, it turns to a team of GMAC investigators to obtain credit information—and anything else that might turn up as a byproduct. One such inquiry produced a disturbing report about the man's involvement in a "questionable murder."

The Nixon people feel it's important to know if a man pays his bills. Whether he has been able to meet a payroll might or might not be as important a consideration.

Nixon staffers working on recruitment are convinced that their man is going to give his top policy people a great deal of autonomy, the kind they enjoyed in the campaign and immediate post-election period. They believe this will appeal to many young executives and they see no difficulty in filling the key posts despite published reports that Mr. Nixon is having trouble attracting good men to Government.

Pleased with the calibre of those whose names have turned up in the "available" file to date, a Nixon associate said the computer deserves all the credit: "There's no question about it. We couldn't have turned up all these names through strictly political organizations." The aide added: "It's great to find people but the proof will be in what happens, how effectively they all work out."

Praise for LBJ

WASHINGTON—There is no need to wait for history's verdict on the presidency of Lyndon B. Johnson.

During his five years in office Johnson has confronted more difficult crises than most of his predecessors and most of the time he has made the right decision at the right time for the right reasons.

A weaker, less determined president might have faltered. Lyndon Johnson faltered hardly at all and the result today is that in the cause of peace, in the cause of racial justice, in the cause of ending poverty the nation has at most points been lifted up to a forward road.

This isn't just opinion without proof. And it is a judgement which we believe is shared by the next president, Richard M. Nixon. He is showing he intends to build on the innovative measures of the Johnson years and carry them forward, not undo them at any major point.

Low key estimate
At the moment LBJ himself is tending to put a low-key estimate on his record "We tried," he is saying. The record is far better than that. Johnson not only "tried," he succeeded.

He has done more than any previous president to make better education available to more students from elementary schools to college.

He has done more than any previous president to make racial justice a reality in America and to enable black citizens to lay hold of their civil rights and voting rights.

The antipoverty program fumbled and faltered in some of its execution, but Lyndon Johnson is the first president to focus national attention on the problems of so much poverty in the midst of so much affluence and to galvanize the nation's conscience into beginning to do something about it.

The Kennedy-Johnson years have been marked by a longer period of sustained prosperity and high economic growth than ever before. LBJ brought about a tax reduction when it was needed to stimulate the economy and, however tardily, persuaded Congress to increase taxes when it was critically needed to restrain the economy.

In all of these areas and in others Johnson succeeded in persuading Congress to enact the necessary legislation. It was a remarkable achievement, but not LBJ's alone. He was helped by two decades of advocacy and national debate which crystallized public support. Johnson inherited this public support and used it brilliantly.

In foreign policy the achievement to which history may pay the greatest attention is that the Johnson presidency avoided nuclear war and helped to negotiate the nuclear nonproliferation treaty.

It is too soon to attempt a verdict on the Vietnam war because the wisdom of our defense of South Vietnam will be judged by the kind of peace which emerges from the Paris talks.

Johnson made these talks possible by stopping the bombing of North Vietnam and he did so not because of the pressures from his critics at home but because Hanoi finally accepted the conditions which he said would make ending the bombing possible.

And he gave up running for re-election at a time when there was every probability he would be renominated and when most political reporters thought his chances of re-election were better than even. He did so in the cause of peace.

Today Lyndon Johnson is leaving office under a cloud of animus and hostility primarily because of the Democratic liberals who didn't like his style and his Southern accent and because of the anti-Vietnamese war critics who felt that the United States did not enough at stake in Southeast Asia to defend a small country so far away.

But the two greatest presidential failures of the last 100 years—Ulysses S. Grant and Warren G. Harding—left office in the sunshine of popular praise.

History's verdict corrected these two misjudgements and will likely correct the other.

Allen-Goldsmith Report

Radio network

John A. Goldsmith

WASHINGTON — Latest multi-million dollar project for South Vietnam is the construction of a nationwide radio network.

It is to cost between $10-$20 million in foreign aid funds.

Unless this announced plan is junked by the incoming Nixon Administration, the Agency for International Development (that administers foreign aid) proposes to build at least four powerful stations that would give all of South Vietnam modern radio coverage.

The stations are to be strategically located in the four major South Vietnam cities — Saigon, DaNang, Qui Nhon and Nha Trang.

Still to be named is the head of the costly project.

The network is to be completed within 18 months — provided a new large-scale Communist offensive doesn't wreak havoc. That's what happened last year when the Red's surprise Tet assault destroyed or heavily damaged some stations of a network then being developed.

It was to consist of 12 stations, of which nine were already in operation. After the Communists were finally routed, U.S. officials re-examined the undertaking and decided to scrap the 12-station concept for a network of four high-powered stations.

Major consideration
A major consideration in this change was ensuring more security while at the same time getting maximum coverage.

Under the AID plan, the new network would have two channels — one military, one civilian. The former would be under U.S. control and solely for military purposes. The civilian channel would be run by the Saigon government, and not subject to the U.S. in any way.

An AID official, asked if this might not open the way for the network, built with American funds, being used against the U.S., readily admitted that possibility.

"Yes, that could happen," he said. "It has in other countries, so it could happen in South Vietnam. Biting the hand that befriends you is a quite common trait."

AID authorities say the multi-million dollar project is favored by the State and Defense Departments despite the risks involved. It is claimed they approve the two-channel network as necessary for improved military communications and to enable the South Vietnamese government to better reach the masses of people.

This spring a powerful new Voice of America radio station will go into operation at Tinang in the Philippines. It is costing $27 million to build, will have ten 250,000-watt transmitters and will broadcast to all of Southeast Asia, Red China and reach deep into central and eastern Russia.

Because of its clear and powerful signal, the Communists will find it more difficult to jam these broadcasts.

The new cabinet doesn't take office until next week, but already knowledgeable Republican insiders are predicting some of its members are destined for even higher office.

Following is the way one top GOP leader puts it:

"There are two almost certain Supreme Court appointees in the cabinet, and three possibilities as 1972 running mate. The Supreme Court potentials are Secretary of State William Rogers (who was Attorney General under President Eisenhower) and Attorney General John Mitchell. Both are outstanding lawyers and would make distinguished judges. Either would be a worthy successor to Chief Justice Warren when he retires at the end of this term."

President Johnson is going to expensive pains to surround himself with White House mementoes in retirement.

On his personal orders, his favorite cameraman, Yoichi Okamoto, has photographed in color every one of the prized paintings in the executive mansion. The superb prints, almost the same size as the originals and similarly framed, will be hung in the library that will hold the President's voluminous files and records in Austin, Tex.

Cost of this unique photography is around $20,000 — of the funds voted by Congress last year to pay for the President's moving out of the White House.

Lodge to hold line

The new team in Paris and the old have much in common. Indications are that Henry Cabot Lodge as chief United States negotiator in the Vietnam peace talks will follow at least as hard a line as his predecessor, Ambassador W. Averell Harriman.

Lodge, 66, is still deeply involved in the Vietnam war, though his most recent assignment has been as ambassador to West Germany.

Cabot Lodge served as Ambassador to Saigon under President John Kennedy and President Lyndon Johnson in 1963-1964 and 1965-1967. On Dec. 8, 1966, he was quoted as anticipating a gradual fading away of the war: "There's no treaty, there's no headlines; they (the enemy) don't even admit they were in a war, let alone admit they got defeated at it."

In a statement on Vietnam submitted to the Republican National Convention's committee on resolution last Aug. 1, Nixon declared: "If the war is still going on next January, it can best be ended by a new administration that has given no hostages to the mistakes of the past; an administration neither defending old errors nor bound by the old record." Lodge in accepting the appointment from President-elect Nixon on Sunday, Jan. 5, sounded a different note. "The commitments of the past run deep," he said. "Each party to the conflict has formed them in more than a decade of war. They have been sanctified in the blood of many."

It was just a year ago that North Vietnamese foreign minister Nguyen Duy Trinh let it be known informally that North Vietnam was definitely willing to hold talks with the United States after a halt to the bombing of North Vietnam.

But Hanoi did not actually accept bids for talks until April 3, 1968 — three days after President Johnson announced he would not run for reelection and that the United States was halting bombing raids over three-quarters of North Vietnam.

On May 10, Harriman and Zuan Thuy, head of Hanoi's delegation, held their first plenary session in the International Conference Center in Paris, once the elegant Hotel Majestic.

At a second meeting on May 17 Hanoi showed interest in U.S. willingness to accommodate Communists in South Vietnam's political life, but still insisted that a complete bombing halt precede any progress.

Hanoi and Washington in July and August agreed to a limited exchange of war prisoners. By then U.S. troop strength in Vietnam had climbed to 534,000. On Oct. 31 President Johnson announced the end of bombing in the north.

The National Liberation Front — Viet Cong — on Nov. 3 accepted terms for the Paris talks. President Thieu of South Vietnam on Nov. 27 picked Vice President Ky to oversee a newly chosen negotiating team to go to Paris.

Since early December the four parties have been sparring over the shape of the negotiating table and other procedural details. Peace table seating is a tired old game.

Some 'happening'

WASHINGTON — Do you suppose it might simply be words that are confusing everyone and causing all the havoc in the world today? By that, I mean maybe we're using the wrong words to describe certain things and, in other cases, perhaps we're using words when we should be using action.

Let me elucidate. (Now there's a perfect example of what I'm talking about. It would have been so much simpler and easier to understand if I'd just said, "Let me explain.") Take this girl and her followers who are dashing through the streets of New York with their clothes off.

They refer to what they're doing as a "happening." Because it is called a "happening," the avant garde crowd is amused, the papers play it up and the police are not seriously trying to make arrests. In fact, the police say they can never get to the scene of the "happening" before the culprits get their clothes back on.

But what is it these people are really doing? They are exposing themselves, that's what! And they're getting away with it because they say it's art and that it's a "happening." But let a little old man do the same thing in a public park and the police will grab him, whether he's got his clothes on or not, and send him away to the farm for 30 days observation.

The nonsense in New York could be stopped right away if someone would call it by its right name. Another case in point are these student "demonstrations," where they bust into the administration office, take over the school switchboard, etc. Well, if we'd stop calling them "demonstrations" and start calling the "breaking and entering," perhaps we could toss enough law-breaking students into the pokey to halt all that.

Then there's this plane "hijacking" business. I guess we're going to be chitchatting about it and going fa-te-dah until 102 people on a hijacked plane are killed by some nut who accidentally discharges a shotgun in the pilot's compartment. We should call "hijacking" simple piracy, and any country which gives asylum to a pirate is as guilty as he is.

Erma Bombeck

'We interrupt this orbit ...'

If Joe Namath wants to shave off his beard for a five-figure sum or Zsa Zsa wants to tell the world about her broken-down transmission, that's all right, but happily the Apollo 8 astronauts are not for sale. The beauty of these three heroes is that they have avoided commercialism.

Just imagine what you would see on your television screen if NASA put its heroes up for grabs?

SCENE: At a launch site of Apollo 8, an hysterical woman runs across the field ignoring the shouts of security guards. She scales the side of the spaceship, shimmying over to a window and shouts, "Frank Borman! You left your family defenseless!" Lovell and Anders register disgust as they order him to leave the capsule. The two remaining astronauts blast off while Frank stands at attention with a can of deodorant over his heart.

SCENE: A recovery capsule bouncing around the Pacific. As frogmen wrestle with the hatch, an astronaut pops his head through the opening and grins, "I came back," and disappears into a helicopter. Next, Borman appears and smiles, "I came back," and follows Lovell. Finally Anders appears, "And I came back." At that moment a frogman takes off his helmet. It is Raquel Welch in disguise. "And I'm glad he did," she coos.

SCENE: Apollo 8 and a Russian spacecraft are shown racing toward the moon. Suddenly the Russian spaceship stops dead while Apollo 8 crashes through a paper hoop and continues. Later, on the moon, an astronaut announces clearly, "Folks, Platforme does make a difference."

SCENE: Inside Apollo 8 the astronauts are preparing to eat. Borman speaks, "Jim, I hate to tell you but your pizza has hard crust." Jim stops eating, "You certainly are blunt, Frank." Frank reaches inside his jump suit and sails a box of pizza over to Frank. "Next time, try this."

"Does NASA know you pad your suit with pizza mix, Frank?"

Later, it is the same scene as Frank speaks, "Jim, your pizza is delicious. Now could we talk about your breath?"

Jim replies, "How would you like a puncture in your pressurized mouth?"

SCENE: Anders is positioning his camera as Lovell goes by. "Are you sure there's film in this camera? Let me check it!" They grapple for the camera as it falls and the film begins to float exposed all over the capsule. "Would you get me a glass of water and a capsule?" asks Anders.

"Oh, do you have a headache?"

"I have an Excedrin headache," says Anders.

At this moment, something is safe from commercialism. So for the moment, eat your hearts out, Katy Winters and Mrs. Olsen!

Youth remains in hospital

EAST-STROUDSBURG — Allen Wrigley, 18, of Springfield, who was injured Thursday when he fell 30 feet from a ledge on Kittatinny Mountain near Columbia, N.J., remains in the General Hospital of Monroe County.

A spokesman for the hospital said his condition was satisfactory and that he was being treated for a laceration on his forehead and many bruises of the body. He has no broken bones.

Police probe one-car crash

STROUDSBURG — State Police from Stroudsburg Friday investigated a one-car accident on old Rt. 115 at Ross Common Manor. They reported no injuries and gave no estimate of damage.

According to police, Allan Faulstick, 16, of Saylorburg, was traveling south when his car went off the side of the highway and crashed into a sign in front of Ross Common Manor.

Final contract—four spades doubled.

Opening lead—five of diamonds.

The late Sidney Lenz used to tell the story of the time many years ago when he played against a man called Mr. Grumpy who fancied himself as a fine bridge player.

It was back in the days of Auction Bridge and as the bidding at that time was different in purpose from that used today, it is not given. Suffice it to say that the final contract was four spades played by Lenz (South) and doubled by Mr. Grumpy (East).

A diamond was led and East cashed two diamond tricks and shifted to the queen of clubs. Lenz won with the ace and cashed the A-K of spades, Mr. Grumpy contributing the nine and the jack.

With the trumps failing to break 2-2, Lenz was in trouble. He had no entry to dummy to utilize the J-10 of clubs, and as East was marked by his double with the king of hearts, two heart losers appeared certain.

However, Lenz led the king of clubs, hoping for a mistake by Mr. Grumpy, and that worthy gent promptly obliged by ruffing with the seven of spades.

At the same time Mr. Grumpy remarked that Lenz apparently did not even know how to count trumps and that he had obviously been fooled by the clever falsecarding of the J-9 of spades.

Lenz by now had the rest of the tricks, since dummy's six of spades provided an entry to the J-10 of clubs. Of course, if Mr. Grumpy had refused to ruff the king of clubs, Lenz would have gone down.

Blissfully unaware of the damage he had done by ruffing the club, Mr. Grumpy twitted Lenz for having failed to draw the last trump and make an overtrick in the doubled contract.

However, when Lenz pointed out that the contract would have been defeated but for the generous cooperation he had received, a sadly humbled and deflated Mr. Grumpy was obliged to retire meekly from the field of battle.

Inaugural gown

Mrs. Pat Nixon in her New York apartment models the Mervyn Berin gown she will wear to the Inaugural Ball in Washington tonight. The mimosa yellow gown is of double-faced silk satin. The petite jacket and small-waisted gown with its bell-shaped skirt is embroidered with Byzantine scrolls of gold and silver bouillon and embellished with hand-set Swarovsky jewels in jonquil and crystal. Periodic cancer checks stressed by physician

STROUDSBURG — The vital necessity of periodic tests to detect cancer of the cervix in women was stressed at the meeting of the Auxiliary of the General Hospital of Monroe County at the Stroud Community House.

Dr. Phillip Martin, obstetrician and gynecologist, associated with Dr. Sherwood Samet, was the guest speaker. The form of cancer prevalent in women takes a long time to develop and does not show symptoms in its early stages, he warned.

The periodic pap test is the only sure way of detecting this cancer, he said. In its advanced stages it can enter the lymph glands and be carried to other parts of the body, he explained, and many women die of this disease yearly.

Dr. Martin illustrated his talk with slides which showed healthy cells turning into cancerous ones and how the advance of the disease destroys life.

Mrs. William Huffman presided at the business meeting in the absence of the president, Mrs. Maxwell Cohen. Members voted to form a non-profit organization to release individual liability in case of large suits of contracts.

A luncheon card party and fashion show is planned for spring. Mrs. George Rung opened the meeting with prayer and salute to the flag.

Hostesses were Mrs. George Driebe, Mrs. Rolf Olofsson, Mrs. Walter Adelman, Mrs. Edward Driebe, Mrs. George Rung and Miss Helen Stacey poured.

Policy change by exchange organization

EAST STROUDSBURG — The Woman's Exchange, a project of the Auxiliary of the General Hospital Auxiliary, located in the former nurses home across from the hospital, has announced a change in policy.

The Exchange accepts articles on both a consignment and donation basis. However because of lack of experienced personnel, merchandise placed with the shop on consignment can only be accepted on Wednesdays from 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Items donated are welcome at any time the shop is open, Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The new arrangement will take effect the first week in February.

Graduation party held for Miss Bartleson

LA ANNA — Miss Lucille Bartleson, of Blue Bell, Montgomery County, who received her bachelor of science in education degree from East Stroudsburg State College on Wednesday, was the guest of honor at a party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence "Bud" Bartleson, La Anna, after the ceremonies at the college.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. John Knoll, Mr. and Mrs. William Knoll, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Robacker, Mrs. Truman Osborn, and Mrs. Frances Osborn, all of this area; Mrs. Vincent Cavanaugh and son, Bruce, of Bethlehem, N.J.; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bartleson and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Phillips, all of Blue Bell.

A biochemist, Miss Bartleson attended Whitpain Township School, Blue Bell, and was graduated from Wissahickon High School, Ambler, before entering ESSC.

Altmann heads president of MORA Club

STROUDSBURG — George Altmann was elected president of the Men of Retirement Age Club at their meeting at the YMCA.

Other officers elected were John Tease, first vice president; Robert McCain, second vice president; Percy Marvin, third vice president; Frank Wagner, secretary; H. Edward Werkheiser, secretary; Rudolph Shubert, treasurer; Charles Jones, assistant treasurer.

Bernard Yardley presided at the meeting. James S. Bunnell, Albert Sommer and Ashton Burrows composed the nominating committee.

Rev. Luther Markin installed the new officers.

At the opening of the meeting, a minute of silence was observed in memory of charter member, John D. Shaffer, who died recently. Two new members, Daniel Marvin and Robert May, were introduced.

Birthday greetings were extended to Earl White, Fred Niepert, Robert May and Norman Pipher. Albert Sommer conducted the singing with Ashton Burrows at the piano.

Birthday party

EAST STROUDSBURG — A birthday party will be featured at the meeting of the Women's Guild of Grace Lutheran Church, East Stroudsburg, on Tuesday, Jan. 21, at 8 p.m. in the social rooms. All women of the congregation are invited.

Miss Kathleen M. Bisher

Bisher-Heard engagement announced

BANGOR — The engagement of Miss Kathleen M. Bisher, daughter of Mrs. Edith M. Bisher and the late Russell Bisher, 132 Miller St., Bangor, to Sherwood R. Heard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Heard, 36 North Fourth St., Bangor, has been announced.

Miss Bisher was graduated from Bangor High School and the Monroe County Hospital School of Certified Laboratory Assistants. She is employed by the Warren County Hospital, Phillipsburg, N.J.

Mr. Heard was graduated from Bangor Area High School and East Stroudsburg State College. He is teaching physical education at the Central School of Great Meadows, N.J.

A summer wedding is planned.

Government: everybody's business, society told

EAST STROUDSBURG — "There is an obligation on the part of the people when controversy exists. Only after researching and knowing more thoroughly the issue, should one either defend or attack the controversial matter." This advice was offered by Commissioner Nancy Shukaitis to an audience at a meeting of St. Luke's, St. Matthew's Altar and Rosary Society.

For citizens considering running for public office, Mrs. Shukaitis listed the following qualifications: 1. a deep concern for the welfare of others; 2. an education — the more, the better; 3. honesty; 4. a basic understanding of our form of government; and 5. the ability to evaluate issues and not people.

Several local government matters were discussed in a question and answer period following the talk.

Msgr. Thomas Cawley led an opening prayer for the meeting over which Mrs. Giovanni Dalesio presided. Miss Eve Zateeny, program chairman announced that February's program would be a panel discussion, "Commitment-Witness" under the direction of Mrs. James Cummings. The panel is to be comprised of women from various other churches.

A Bible reading based on the "Feast of the Holy Family" was conducted by Mrs. John Powell, director of spiritual development. Mrs. Anthony Mangan assisted with the reading.

Mrs. Herman Eitzenberger was named chairman for the St. Patrick's Dance which is to be sponsored by the Society.

Refreshments were served from a table decorated with a white lace tablecloth. The centerpiece was a white ceramic Madonna set in a floral arrangement of small white mums and blue lilies, flanked by a tall white taper. Mrs. Francis Gruszka and Mrs. John Wiesmeth were hostesses for the evening.

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

You can dismiss my qualifications as an art critic because I look at the program before I look at the pictures, and put the artist before the art.

I was, for instance, delighted to hear that Joan Groff won third place in professional class even before I saw her painting "Autumn Thunder." Because she's our Bob Groff's wife, and a graduate of Penn State, and young.

I was even more impressed when I had a chance to see the picture with that old Victorian house emerging from the eerie light that takes over the world in a storm. Incidentally a lot of the viewers were turning their fingers over the painting trying to figure out the media. It's an oil, not on canvas but on another type of treated material that beginning artists use because it's not so expensive. Anyway it's effective.

And that Barbara Beaver should take first place in the Amateur division was interesting she's the wife of a professional, Fred Beaver who teaches art at Stroudsburg High School, and this is the first show she's entered. He's prouder than if the prize were his own.

Gladys Patton with her painting of peonies and Peg Shull with her "Joan of Arc in Prison" have just taken up art, and it's interesting to see their different approaches.

Big city art shows attract the critics whose learned criticisms are influential. But

In Florida

SARASOTA, Fla. — Norman Ducklow and family of Stroudsburg, R.D. 5 recently visited the state-owned Ringling Museum while vacationing on Florida's lower west coast.

I doubt if they can equal the personal interest and involvement of everybody who comes to see the show as this hometown show where everybody sets up as a critic. And where opinions are hotly debated on street corners, bridge tables and lunch counters.

TOUCH OF BEAUTY

By DOROTHY

People often go on accepting ideas which have lost their validity. A case in point is that of the classic oval face. We have so long taken for granted that the ideal woman's face conforms to the classic oval that most people have not yet noticed that this is so no longer. As we view our movies, television and magazines, we have all become acquainted with a great range of facial contours. We have seen that long, square, round or short faces may also be attractive. We realize that irregular proportions or odd features can be piquant, charming or even beautiful. This fact should give aid and comfort to those women who have features which annoy them or which they consider defects.

Whether your facial contour is round or square, beauty can take many forms and DOROTHY'S BEAUTY SALON, 572 Main St., Stroudsburg has a variety of hair styles to make you highly attractive. Open Mon. thru Sat. 9-5. For those allergy problems, we specialize in dermologic cosmetics. Call 421-2432.

Pile Treatment Works Wonders For California Couple

Treatment Shrinks Piles, Relieves Pain In Most Cases

Sacramento, Cal. Mrs. C. Arnold of this city reports: "I can't contain myself any longer to write you about wonderful Preparation H for hemorrhoids. My husband has also been using same and it's doing wonders for him!"

(Note: Doctors have proved in most cases—Preparation H actually shrinks inflamed hemorrhoids. In case after case, the sufferer first notices prompt relief from pain, burning and itching. Then swelling is gently reduced. There's no other formula for the treatment of hemorrhoids like doctor-tested Preparation H. It also lubricates to make bowel movements more comfortable, soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.)

Ice-covered area highways blamed for two accidents

MOUNT POCONO — Mount Pocono Borough Police investigated three accidents over the past weekend. Two were caused by icy highways.

At 5 p.m., Sunday, a car driven by August R. Cavenevahi of Summerville, N.J., skidded on icy Rt. 611, south of Mount Pocono.

He applied his brakes for a car in front of him which had stopped, blocking both lanes of southbound traffic. Mount Pocono Borough Police Chief James Carey said.

When Cavenevahi applied his brakes, his car skidded off the side of the highway, struck an embankment, came back onto the highway, spun around, skidded another 50 feet and struck a telephone pole and then crossed the highway divider and came to a stop in the northbound lane of traffic.

He was not injured but Chief Carey estimated damage at $500.

Saturday at 6:45 a.m., a car driven by Patricia A. Dunham of Schenectady, N.Y., skidded on icy Rt. 940 as she traveled south. Her car went off the side of the highway, struck an embankment and came to a stop.

A car driven by Vera Katchmere of Tobyhanna, traveling in the same direction, skidded into the Dunham car.

Mrs. Katchmere and her son, Donald, 14, were taken to a Mount Pocono doctor. Donald was treated for a broken wrist. Mrs. Katchmere was treated and released.

A third accident occurred Thursday at 12:15 p.m. and involved cars driven by Albert Parady of Mount Pocono and Boyd J. VanHorn of Stroudsburg R.D. 1.

Van Horn and his wife, Sandra, were taken to the General Hospital of Monroe County where they were treated and released.

Chief Carey said Parady was traveling south on Rt. 196 and was about to make a left turn into a private driveway, when he saw the Van Horn pickup truck he stopped. Van Horn applied his brakes and skidded approximately 73 feet before colliding with the Parady car.

Pocono Crest reported sold

POCONO PINES — Pocono Crest, a 2,000 acre resort area and former Lutheran Church-owned campsite, has been sold for $1.8 million to Susque Industries, Inc. of Wilkes-Barre.

The purchase was made between Susque Industries, headed by James J. Durkin, of Shine View, Dallas from Valparaiso University of Indiana.

According to Durkin, plans will call for an expansion of the resort to accommodate large conventions and for the enlargement of the lake from 200 acres to 400 acres.

A residential community is also planned for development around the shores of the lake.

Shafer 'tames' mustang at Buck Hill snow races

By PETE GRADY
Pocono Record Reporter

BUCK HILL — Gov. Raymond P. Shafer tamed a "Mustang" and issued a proclamation honoring Buck Hill Ski Area manager Harry Drennan's "outstanding contribution" in promoting winter sports at Buck Hill during the last 50 years.

In a short, tan corduroy coat, no gloves and a pair of brown shoes Gov. Shafer braved Saturday's miserable fog and drizzle as he rode a Mustang Polaris Snowmobile up and down and around an icy trail like a boy having a ball on a toy fire engine.

The governor arrived at the Buck Hill Ski Area around noon to kick off the third annual Buck Hill Snowmobile Championship extravaganza.

As the red, yellow and blue snowmobiles popped around the two-mile track in Saturday's first race Gov. Shafer kept up his own high paced chatter with Buck Hill manager John G. Horsman and former Pennsylvania Sen. William Z. Scott of Pocono Manor and present chairman of the Pennsylvania State Liquor Control Board.

Just before crossing the finish line one of the drivers left his snowmobile for a split second as it zoomed up over a huddle and plunked down on ice and snow with a jarring crunch.

"I don't know whether that was his teeth or not," Gov. Shafer said commenting on the impact.

Scott sized up the speed of the snowmobiles when he asked the governor, "How about four of these for my liquor control boys, Governor?"

Dr. Brooke C. Weiss of Mountainhome, Buck Hill's resident physician, was introduced to the Governor by Horsman. Dr. Weiss told the Governor about the number of fractures from skiing accidents at Pocono Mountain area resorts. "About 40 or 50 fractures per weekend," Dr. Weiss said.

"Is that right?" Gov. Shafer said.

"We're a real sports minded community," Horsman said.

Spectators came up to the Governor and shook his hand. He obliged one family by posing with the wife. The husband couldn't get his camera to work properly but the son saved the day with another camera.

A big man in a black coat held an umbrella up for the governor. The big man never left the Governor. He wore black gloves and there was something long and thin and hard bulging from his right overcoat pocket.

MAMAC plans scholarships

STROUDSBURG — Eight scholarships for $250 will be awarded by the Mid-Atlantic Music and Arts Center this year to young people throughout the state in addition to several local scholarships. It was announced Sunday.

The $250 scholarships will be awarded to outstanding music students at eight regional high school band concerts. The entire state of Pennsylvania comprises the eight regions.

Scholarship recipients will be selected by the MAMAC scholarship committee and music directors of high schools

Governor read the proclamation.

"For 50 years you have been interested and occupied in promoting winter sports and I want to extend my warmest congratulations and sincere thanks for the outstanding contribution you have made to their popularity," he said.

"I am sure that the success of Buck Hill Falls is due in large part to your capable management of its winter sports."

"Winter sports have become big business in Pennsylvania and, along with being a vital part of our economy, are exceptionally beneficial to the health, welfare and enjoyment of all citizens who take advantage of them."

"I hope you will enjoy the blessings of health, happiness and continued success in the years to come."

Somebody brought the Governor a cup of coffee as Scott told him Buck Hill had a real fine golf course and he should play this summer if he has the time.

"It's a real fine golf course, Governor," Drennan said.

Despite mild temperatures Gap youth frolic at carnival

DELAWARE WATER GAP — A sudden break in the mid-winter temperatures over the week-end did not stop some of Delaware Water Gap's young ice skaters from performing at Lake Lenape during the third annual Winter Festival Sunday afternoon.

Several dozen young people came to participate, with a dozen competing directly in the ice skating contest.

Competition was originally set-up into six age groups but the unfavorable condition of the ice allowed only the two oldest age groups on the ice. Winners were as follows:

Age group 13 to 15: first place Ricky Widdoss, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Widdoss, and Joe Keiper, 15, second place.

Age group 10 to 13: first place, Rodney Baechtold, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Baechtold, and Kevin Komerl, 12, second place.

The contest was a timed-race about a 300 foot triangular obstacle course.

The annual winter sports event for children is sponsored by the Delaware Water Gap Chamber of Commerce. Members of the Women's Civic Club of Delaware Water Gap were on hand to serve refreshments.

Bob Davies and Merv Griffin, students from East Stroudsburg State colleges served as judges.

West defeats East, 10 to 7 on late fourth period score

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Roman Gabriel of the Los Angeles Rams drove the Western Conference all-stars 55 yards to a touchdown late in the fourth period Sunday for a 10-7 West victory in the 19th annual National Football League Pro Bowl game.

With both teams hampered by a wet field in the Coliseum, Don Meredith of the Dallas Cowboys had put the East ahead 7-3 in the third period on his 34-yard scoring pass to Paul Warfield of the Cleveland Browns.

The West led at halftime 3-0 on a 20-yard field goal by Bruce Gossett of the Rams.

The victory was the 12th against seven losses for the West which was favored by four points Sunday and had the end back of a crowd of 32,000 rain-drenched fans.

The West started its game-winning drive on its 45-yard line. On the second play, Gabriel threw a 25-yard pass to Carroll Dale of the Green Bay Packers. On the next play, Donny Anderson of the Packers cut off tackle for 22 yards to the East one. On the first play Bill Brown of Minnesota plunged into the end zone for the game-winning score.

The touchdown came with 1:57 remaining in the game.

For his effort in leading the West to the victory, Gabriel was named most valuable player of the contest while his teammate Merlin Olsen was chosen lineman of the game.

Until the fourth period heroics by the West, Meredith had dominated the game as he completed six out of eight passes in the second half before being replaced by Fran Tarkenton of the New York Giants.

The wet field hampered both teams with the West having an edge in the first half although it could only record the field goal and the East dominating the third period.

A penalty in the second period cost the East a touchdown. It came after Gabriel had replaced Earl Morrall of Baltimore at quarterback. Gabriel fumbled an attempted handoff and Don Brunn of St. Louis scooped up the ball and ran it 31 yards to the West four.

On the first play, Leroy Kelly of Cleveland went into the end zone from the four only to have the touchdown nullified by a backfield in motion penalty.

The East then was forced back to its 22 and lost the scoring opportunity.

Gossett's 20-yard field goal climaxed a drive of 78 yards highlighted by Gabriel's 45-yard pass to Dale and another of 16 to Brown. There were only 33 seconds remaining in the half when Gossett collected the three-pointer.

Meredith completed eight of 13 passes for 135 yards while Gabriel made good on six of eleven for 106 yards. Tarkenton was the leading rusher of the game with 46 yards.

As promised, Meredith started for the East and Earl Morrall of Baltimore for the West.

Late 'heroics' by Lynch sparks West past East

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Linebacker Jim Lynch of the Kansas City Chiefs intercepted two passes and recovered an on-side kickoff, all in the final seven minutes of play, to pace the West to a come-from-behind 38-25 victory over the East Sunday in the American Football League All-Star game.

Statistics

	West	East
First downs	14	20
Rushing yardage	119	157
Passing yardage	189	195
Return yardage	118	78
Passes	8/28/3	16/32/3
Punts	7/38/6	2/34/5
Fumbles lost	1	1
Yards penalized	35	15

Lynch's last-minute heroics erased a record-setting six-field goal performance by Jim Turner of the New York Jets and a gallant first half show by a limping Joe Namath.

The West, trailing 25-13 early in the final quarter, came to life on an 81-yard Len Dawson to Floyd Little pass play that carried to the East 1-yard line and cut the gap to 25-20 on an end sweep by Hewitt Dixon of the Oakland Raiders.

Lynch, the former Notre Dame star, pounced on the ensuing kickoff at the East 43 yard line. A 37-yard pass from Dawson, who sat out the first half, to Warren Wells of Oakland, carried the ball to the East six. Four plays later AFL rookie-of-the-year Paul Robinson of Cincinnati ripped across from the one to give the West a 26-25 lead.

Robinson, only AFL runner to gain more than 1,000 yards this past season, then scored on a two-point running play.

Moments later, Lynch intercepted a pass from Bob Griese of Miami at the East 37-yard line and ran it all the way to the East one. Robinson went across on the next play.

Even with that, Lynch wasn't finished. As Griese tried to bring the East back, Lynch made another interception that set up the West's final score, a 32-yard field goal by Norwegian Jan Stenerud who also kicked a record 51-yard field goal in the first half and three extra points.

Namath, playing despite an injured knee, had the East in front 19-3, mainly on four field goals by Turner, who led the AFL in scoring last season when he kicked a pro record 34 field goals.

The first period ended in a 3-3 tie with Turner having kicked a 27-yard field goal and Stenerud his 51-yarder.

But the East, sparked by a 48-yard pass interception return by George Sammes of Buffalo, drove to its only touchdown of the game, which came on a two-yard run by Jim Kick of Miami in the opening minute of the second period.

Namath had the East in scoring position three more times in the second period, but was forced to turn to Turner when receivers dropped apparent touchdown passes and the Jets' place-kicking ace came through with field goals of 16, 19 and 13 yards.

Flyers end slump with 3-1 win

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Jean Guy Gendron scored two goals and Dick Cherry added the other as Philadelphia defeated Detroit 3-1 Sunday night in a fight-enlivened National Hockey League game at the Spectrum.

Philadelphia scored the game's two deciding goals in the second period after veteran Gordie Howe had tallied his 21st goal of the season to give Detroit a 1-1 tie.

Gendron's 13th goal of the year after 5:08 of the second period put Philadelphia ahead to stay.

Cherry's first goal of his National Hockey League career at 15:10 of the second period gave Philadelphia some insurance as Detroit took 14 shots on goal at goalie Bernie Parent in the final period.

The Red Wings ended up outshooting the Flyers 34-31.

Howe's goal came after 8:08 of the first period with Alex Delvecchio assisting on the play.

There were three fights in the game and 17 penalties were called. Philadelphia's Gary Peters scrapped with Detroit's Bob Baun in the first period and then took on Red Wing Nick Libett in the final session.

A crowd of 13,949 watched Philadelphia's important victory.

Explode in second half

by STEVE SMILANICH
UPI Sports Writer

The fascinating thing about the mighty UCLA basketball team is that no one, including coach John Wooden, knows who is going to trigger the scoring explosion for the unstoppable Bruins.

A case in point is Saturday night's outing with Houston in which the top-ranked Bruins broke loose for 27 points in the first nine minutes of the second half to demolish the Cougars 100-64.

UCLA led only 36-30 at halftime but tallied as many points in the second half as the Cougars did in the entire game.

Warriors nip 76ers;
Thurmond scores 35

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Nate Thurmond scored 35 points and grabbed 34 rebounds Sunday to lead the San Francisco Warriors to a 90-90 tie with the Philadelphia 76ers in a National Basketball Association game.

Jeff Mullins, who scored 26 points, gave the Warriors a 90-90 tie with a field goal with 4:16 remaining and sent them ahead to stay with another field goal with 3:43 to go.

Thurmond hit on a three-point play a half minute later to make it 95-90. The 76ers cut the final margin to a point on Hal Greer's easy layup at the buzzer.

Thurmond's rebound total was the highest in the league this season.

San Francisco dominated the first three quarters, but Philadelphia rallied in the final period. The 76ers led 80-79 with 1:56 to play, lost the lead again and rallied for ties at 86-86 and 88-88. Chet Walker sent the 76ers ahead at 90-88 until Mullins hit on his tying field goal.

Pistons rap Bulls for 4th straight

DETROIT (UPI) — Eddie Miles and Happy Harston combined for 51 points Sunday as the Detroit Pistons won their fourth game in a row for the first time this season, 120-111, over the Chicago Bulls after nearly blowing a 24-point lead.

The Pistons held a 56-32 advantage enroute to a 69-48 halftime lead but Chicago, spearheaded by Bob Boozer's 13 points and Tom Boerwinkle's seven, outscored the Pistons 33-17 in the third quarter to narrow the gap to 86-81.

But Dave Bing hit a fielder to open the fourth quarter and Detroit stayed on top the rest of the way. Bing ended with 18, Miles 29 and Harston 25.

While Boozer led Chicago with 25 and Clem Haskins had 21 as Chicago lost only the fourth time in its last dozen National Basketball Association outings.

Find new team

TWIN TROUBLES: (Q) We're twins and we're 15. We each have a steady boy friend. They're not twins but they've teamed up on us.

When we go on double-dates to the movies our boy friends don't want to watch the movie. All they want to do is to pet and make out.

Now they want more. We said not until we're married. They said as long as it's love, marriage doesn't matter.

We said it does matter, and now they want to marry us. They're just 16. What should we do?

Twins in Connecticut

(A.) Team up and find yourselves two new boys who are more fun and less bother. If your friends are so overheated that they are ready to bypass an education and get married at 16, they're not what either of you will want when you're 21 and old enough for marriage.

NO SHOW TO GO TO: (Q) This is mainly for theater managers, I guess. I want to know why decent shows are not put on. Decent people do not like to go to indecent movies.

On Friday nights when there's nothing else to do I like to go to a show. But I can't because there hasn't been a decent movie on for six weeks and we've had six different movies.

I'm not allowed to see indecent movies. What do you think of managers who allow movies like this to be shown week after week, with nothing for nice people to see? Please, do not bring my name.

A Decent Girl in Hobbs, N.M.

(A) I, too, believe we need many more wholesome, decent, and inspiring movies to choose from! If enough people believed as you and I do, and acted on their beliefs, we would get our wish.

Ann Landers

Life never gets dull

Dear Ann Landers: Tell "Black Lace Trouble," the woman whose husband asked her to serve him breakfast in the baby-doll outfit he brought from Atlantic City, that she should be thankful she can still interest him.

When I read about people like that, I count my blessings. Peggy and I just celebrated our 25th wedding anniversary, and we are still as excited about each other as we were the day we married.

I never know what I'll find when I come home to dinner. One night Peggy will greet me at the door wearing a bikini, the next night it could be a floor length evening gown, or panties and bra. Tonight she was topless. Heaven knows what tomorrow will bring. Peggy is so full of little surprises life never gets dull around our house. I'm one of the luckiest fellows alive and I know it.

I'd like to surprise Peggy with this letter in the paper. Be a pal, Ann. She reads you every day.

NED

Dear Ned: Well, you two do love surprises, don't you? How nice! Please don't surprise Peggy by bringing home an old school chum for dinner. Bub, he might get the surprise of his life!

Dear Ann Landers: My favorite subject is Latin. When I tell this to my friends they look at me as if I am crazy. Just today somebody said, "I wouldn't take Latin for all the money in the world. It's a dead language." I must admit I've never heard people talking to each other in Latin, the way they do in Spanish or French, but Latin helps people understand ALL languages. For example, I understand English a lot better because I know some Latin. In the last two years my vocabulary has increased tremendously.

Kids don't pay much attention to what I say, but they listen to Ann Landers, so please say something good about Latin. Thank you.

A LATIN LOVER

Dear Lover: Your letter hit me where it hurt. If I could live my high school years over, the one thing I would do differently would be to take Latin. I ducked it because I, too, thought it was a dead language, and I have regretted it ever since.

Dear Ann Landers: Our 13-year-old daughter is adopted. Lynn knows she was a Chosen Child. We took your advice 10 years ago and told her. What I need to know now is this: People keep mentioning the fact (and often in her presence) that Lynn is getting to look more like her dad every day.

Should one of us say, "Lynn is an adopted child and we are so delighted that she looks like Harry"? Or should nothing be said?

CHATTANOOGA

Dear Chat: Play it by ear. There may be times when you will want to volunteer the information, other times you might want to say nothing.

And incidentally, isn't it a happy coincidence that so many adopted children do grow up to resemble their adoptive parents?

Dear Ann Landers: I was thinking of buying my boyfriend a very nice sweater for his birthday. When I told my girl friend she said, "Ann Landers says it isn't in good taste to buy a boy clothes. That's his mother's job."

Did you actually say that? I can hardly believe it! What should a girl buy for her boyfriend if she wants to spend more than $3?

Study suggests balance between government, private sector to win in war against poverty

(Editor's note: This is the fifth of five parts dealing with the failure of the government's vaunted "war on poverty" and the approach to the problem President-elect Richard M. Nixon has promised to take.)

By DAVID B. OTTAWAY
Ottaway News Service
Washington Bureau

The "Nixon strategy" may provide a new dynamic and dimension to the war on poverty. But a strategy relying largely on private efforts alone may prove as unbalanced and unsuccessful as one relying primarily on government efforts.

A recent study of the war on poverty by the Senate Subcommittee on Employment, Manpower, and Poverty concluded that even if all current job openings in the private sector were filled, there would remain a "job gap" of at least 2.4 million.

The subcommittee report pointed out another aspect of the problem generally overlooked in the great debate,

Draft board advises on registration

HARRISBURG — As a result of having received a number of inquiries from young men, and their families, concerning their responsibilities with regard to registration under the Military Selective Service Act of 1967, Brigadier General Henry M. Gross, State Director, outlined their obligations as follows:

Every man is required to register with a Selective Service local board within five days after he becomes 18 years of age.

In every county throughout the state there is at least one local board serving that area. If the prospective registrant is away from his home area at the time that he is required to register, he should report to and register with the local board ministering to the area in which he is residing. He need not return to his home area.

Many high schools and colleges throughout the state have individuals appointed as registrars to facilitate registration. The individual should check with the student counselor to ascertain if one is available at his school.

The address he gives as his permanent home address will determine the local board which keeps his records and retains jurisdiction over him even if he should later move to another area or state. The law provides severe penalties for failure on a registrant's part to register at the proper time.

Men who are on active duty with the Armed Forces at the time they would be required to register must register when they leave active duty.

If a young man has any questions concerning registration, he should write, call or visit the nearest local board and get the correct answers.

Radio Free Europe THE IN SOUND FROM OUTSIDE

advertising contributed for the public good namely that a job does not necessarily assure the head of a family that he will earn enough to rise out of poverty.

The subcommittee found that in 1966 there were 3.3 million poor family heads under 65 years of age that worked full or part time and still were poor. This amounted to 72 per cent of all poor family heads under 65.

Shiftless poor myth Thus, the subcommittee noted, there is little substance to the myth that people are poor because they do not want to work. Nor are nonwhites lazier than whites. In fact, the report found the contrary to be true.

Among poor male family heads, 78 per cent of nonwhites worked as compared to only 68 per cent whites in 1965. Among female family heads, 50 per cent of nonwhites worked, whereas only 37 per cent of whites held jobs.

The statistics of poverty are interesting and well worth examining, for they strongly suggest that a number of different strategies must be devised for various categories of poor people, if indeed the war on poverty is to be won in this country.

Above all, the statistics show that jobs are not a cure-all to poverty.

Of the 29.7 million poor people in 1968, 5.4 million were elderly persons and another 12.5 million were children. Altogether, 60 per cent of the poor were either too old or too young to work.

The figures provided by the Census Bureau to the Senate Subcommittee also pointed up an alarming trend toward an increase in the proportion of female-headed families, from 23 per cent of all poor families in 1959 to 30 per cent in 1968. Thus, nearly one quarter of all poor people (23 per cent) were in families where the mother was the head and there was no father present.

The subcommittee found there were 435,000 female family heads willing to work but unable to do so because they had children to look after. It urged that they be given a free choice to work through the establishment of day care centers for the children.

The subcommittee report, the most exhaustive study of the war on poverty by Congress to date, devotes much space to the problem of how to provide for 3.4 million unemployed, the number of jobless in 1968 which was about the same in 1966. It proposes a mixed strategy to end long-term and so-called hidden unemployment.

Vacancies could be filled The subcommittee estimates that there are currently about 1.2 million job vacancies in the private sector which could be filled through an intensive training and job placement program.

Such a program, the report states, should be coordinated at the community level. It hailed the Concentrated Employment Program (CEP), aimed at uniting training and placement projects, as a "major step in the right direction."

But the report was otherwise highly critical of federal manpower and training programs which it said were "badly fragmented" and failed to provide an "effective system."

The subcommittee strongly backed the National Alliance of Businessmen and the JOBS program. But it also urged a program of federal subsidies and tax incentives for industries locating in poverty areas and supported the concept of a "Domestic Development Bank" to help ghetto residents to get into business for themselves.

Yet, the major conclusion of the report is that the private sector alone cannot resolve the problem of poverty, "for there are not enough jobs to go around." The "job gap" of 2.4 million is thus the focus of the subcommittee's concern.

The subcommittee appears convinced that the federal government must become the "employer of last resort." It recommends a "massive program of public service employment" providing jobs for 1.2 million persons over a four-year period. The jobs, it stressed, should be "socially useful" and not simply make-work, and should offer the possibility of promotion through on-the-job training.

Income support necessary The remaining 1.2 million unemployed pose a different problem and demand other remedies, for they are unable to work because of illness, disability, or children (female family heads).

For these people, the subcommittee concluded, some sort of income support is imperative.

The report discusses a number of alternatives — family allowances, guaranteed annual income, negative income tax, and disability insurance — without taking a position as to which might be the most effective.

The major thrust of the subcommittee's report is that poverty must become the joint concern of the federal government, states, local communities, and the private sector working together and combining their efforts and resources.

The report stands as a warning to President-elect Richard M. Nixon, who may be placing an inordinate amount of faith in the ability of the private sector to win the war against poverty.

Its analysis of poverty clearly shows that there are some things the private sector can and should do, such as providing jobs and training for the unemployed, but other things the federal government alone can do, such as providing sufficient income for the elderly, vocational education programs for children of the poor, and long-term planning.

Government will have to become an employer of last resort if long-term unemployment is to be eliminated.

Whether such a balance of effort, wills, and resources can be struck between the federal government and the private sector remains to be seen.
